

PHILOSOPHY OF STATISTICS
DISCUSSION QUESTIONS #4

- (1) Do the problems with classical methods mostly have to do with their mindless (mis)use, as Gigerenzer & Marewski suggest, or also with their allegedly flawed logic, as Schneider argues? Can the two types of problems be neatly separated?
- (2) Can we have routine statistical inference without surrogate science? If so, would we be better off with automatic Bayes instead of the null ritual?